Spotlight on the Bribery Act...

The Bribery Act 2010 came into force on 1 July 2011. Here is a brief overview of the key messages and how our content is vital in helping firms implement an effective third-party due diligence process as recommended in government guidance:

The Bribery Act 2010 sets out four key offences:

- Offences of bribing another person
- Offences relating to being bribed
- Bribery of foreign public officials
- Failure of commercial organisations to prevent bribery

How does LexisNexis help firms comply?

LexisNexis has proven products and services to help firms implement the effective due diligence procedures required including:

- Performing due diligence on new third-parties
- Ongoing monitoring of third-parties

How does our content meet these needs?

Our Risk products (LexisDiligence and Bridger) cover over 33,000 sources of comprehensive global information to help firms conduct effective due diligence including:

- 23,000 news sources For searching 'negative news' and other business reputation checks
- 150+ company databases including 130 million reports from Dun & Bradstreet for helping to validate a company's existence, ownership structure, subsidiaries, financials and directors
- Global lists of politically exposed persons, sanctions and watchlists to check regulatory enforcement and government associations
- Extensive international legal cases data to check litigation risks

More information on the Bribery Act 2010 or our Risk & Compliance solutions can be found at www.lexisnexis.co.uk/risk. Alternatively, you can email risk@lexisnexis.co.uk.
